

Workplace Violence Prevention Program Analysis

Create confidence in the workplace by ensuring the safety and protection of your workforce.

Protect your workforce for optimal patient care

Your workforce must have confidence that their physical safety is protected in the work environment so they can focus on delivering quality patient care.

Our experts are here to help

Our multidisciplinary team of accreditation advisors are available to help ensure you meet annual evaluation requirements through a comprehensive assessment of the workplace environment, as well as workforce safety practices and processes.

Are you prepared for the Joint Commission Workplace Violence Prevention Standards and the OSHA Requirements?

Reducing workplace violence in healthcare and strengthening the safety of your workforce and culture is imperative to the well-being of healthcare organizations, their workers and patients. The Joint Commission has implemented standards to provide a framework to guide hospitals in developing effective workplace violence prevention systems. The Joint Commission requirements not only provide guidance for developing workplace violence prevention programs, but also promote a culture of safety within healthcare organizations.

Assessing the safety of your environment

The first step in ensuring compliance with these new standards is taking a look at current practices to ensure processes are effective in preventing workplace violence incidents. Vizient Accreditation Advisory Services team can help by:

- Conducting a comprehensive assessment of the workplace environment, and workforce practices and processes.
- Deploying a multidisciplinary team of accreditation advisors with combined experience in law enforcement, worksite security, risk management, employee health, and clinical and patient safety.
- Delivering an assessment report with recommendations and facilitating discussions on prioritization and next steps.

Methods used to complete the assessment include, but are not limited to:

- Physical environment and hazards direct observation
- Staff Interviews
- Document review
- Data analysis
