Evolve your clinical-supply integration efforts

This virtual learning series will help you address physician leader engagement, managing variation, working with suppliers and implementation for sustainability within a clinical-supply chain integration model. During this series, we will:

- Address the importance of physician leadership in supply chain across healthcare organizations, as well as the importance of establishing a revolving category management schedule, so your organization can execute a shared decision-making platform with physicians and contracting to accomplish the goal of reducing variation, managing cost and standardizing equipment needs.
- Discuss how hospitals and suppliers can create sustainable partnerships which includes sharing of data and insights, allowing suppliers an opportunity to tailor their strategies to align with hospital demands and objectives.
- Address best practice in implementation and sustainability through communication, data, key performance indicators, physician engagement and effective timelines.

Target audience

We encourage nurses, physicians, clinical-supply integration and value analysis teams, contracting and supply chain staff to join.
